

Table of Contents

Body and Mind

| | |
|---|-----|
| Pascal Denis | 1 |
| A fresh look at goal motion constructions | |
| Kyoko Masuda | 19 |
| Japanese Postpositions ni and de : A Cognitive Linguistic Approach | |
| Leonard Talmy | 33 |
| Recombinance in the Evolution of Language | |
| Adele E. Goldberg, Devin Casenhiser and Nitya Sethuraman | 67 |
| A lexically based proposal of argument structure meaning | |
| David Kemmerer and Daniel Tranel | 83 |
| Evidence that the meanings of English locative prepositions are processed in the left inferior prefrontal and parietal cortices | |
| Eve Danziger | 105 |
| Deixis, Gesture and Spatial Frame of Reference | |
| David McNeill | 123 |
| The thought-language-hand link | |
| Anna Papafragou, Christine Massey & Lila Gleitman | 151 |
| Motion event conflation and clause structure | |

Learnability

| | |
|--|-----|
| Sean A. Fulop | 173 |
| Mathematical Results on Syntactic Learnability | |
| Sabra D. Pelham | 201 |
| Evaluating alternate accounts of pronoun errors and case acquisition: insights from a case study | |

Bev Sauer 221
Language acquisition and the discourses of risk

Bruce Tesar and Alan Prince 241
Using phonotactics to learn phonological alternations

Quantitative Approaches

Anna-Maria De Cesare 273
A Corpus-based approach to the concept of synonymy:
A case study of Italian anche and pure

Stephani M. Foraker 295
The processing of logophoric reflexives shows discourse and locality constraints

Stefan Th. Gries 311
New perspectives on old alternations

Jeffrey T. Runner 331
Insights into binding and ellipsis from head-mounted eye-tracking experiments

Kjell Johan Sæbø 357
On the Quantity and Quality of Contexts in Discourse Semantics